

Subject: : Professional Stream Reports

Topic: : May 1 report

May 1 report

Author: : YoughRiverGuide

Date: : 2010/5/7 18:29:55

URL:

A little late, but I was in no rush since the river has been blown all week. It's coming down nicely, but probably won't be wadeable below Ramcat until sometime next week.

The fishing last weekend was decent, but the only thing we could get fish on was nymphs. We had a few follows on streamers but they just weren't on them. There are good numbers of caddis in the mornings right now and there were a few March Browns last weekend as well, but not in any real numbers.

If you're planning on fishing tomorrow, the whistle is supposed to blow around three p.m. at the dam, so the flow should be nice up until that point.

Have fun out there.

LHGS

www.laurelhighlandsguideservices.com