Im not saying it isnt realistic to use renewable engery on the home scale. What lam saying is the average Joe with kids, a wife and the average job can't afford to do so. Also a lot of people live in apartments and dont have the option to change the energy they use.

Also im not saying its a conspiracy. Im saying that CEO's of large companies could really careless. It wouldnt be cost effect to them to change how they supply us.

Again its not that we arent willing to pay the price. The average person just cant afford to pay it. There is a big difference.
