

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Allen Fly Fishing

Re: Allen Fly Fishing

Author: : wetnet

Date: : 2010/5/21 22:21:40

URL:

As far as the Allen line goes, I haven't a clue, I haven't seen any of their products. As far as hype goes my son was given $100 Brodin nets only to use one he bought at Cabelas ($19.99) and modified with duct tape. Light, deep basket, perfect shape. If you want the truth about your products give them to the young guns on the site. Something about youth will always tell you the truth. If you want to test a product for efficiency, contact me and I'll have Wes try it out. If you think "Who is this kid that is any better than all of the people on the project?" Well he doesn't care about brand names, he doesn't knock a product down if it suits the purpose of the buyer. The $100 net he gave it to me. For him it's too heavy, the shape is good but the wood creates resistance in the water. It's about efficiency. Hopefully some day this mind set will give him what he thinks he wants. I think fly fishing and hearing your National Anthem is WAY over rated.

At some point I'd like to know about your privacy policy. While I know everything you put out on the web seems to be everywhere. I think it would be an appropriate time with facebook etc, to state your policies.