

---

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Valley Creek, Chester County 6/1/10

Re: Valley Creek, Chester County 6/1/10

Author: : JustFish

Date: : 2010/6/3 11:55:46

URL:

Quote:

salmo wrote:

I wade Valley regularly. Never thought about spooking the fish. The pool just above the bridge needs to be hit from in the stream. As to the PCB's I'm only concerned about the extra toe I grew after my last outing.

Salmo

If your talking about the metal bridge your not correct. I fish that pool from the banks all the time. I never get in the water there. Also, when people talk about only catching 6-10 inch fish it is b/c they're not stealthy enough. Valley isn't a stocky stream where you can trudge around and still have a thirty fish day. If I do wade I take my time getting in and into place. If your not stealthy will fish still be caught....maybe.....will you catch bigger fish....no.

When I see guys standing in the middle of the stream I go elsewhere. Valley takes patience.....it's definitely not for everyone.

One more thing, if you see the guy who drives the green Jeep Cherokee stop and talk to him. He fishes there everyday and loves stimulating conversation. 🏠 Just kidding on that one....he's grumpy and isn't very social. I say hi to him anyway b/c it makes me laugh to see how miserable people can be. 🤔