

---

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : silk fly line

Re: silk fly line

Author: : sight_nymph_17109

Date: : 2010/6/10 9:51:12

URL:

buzz,

I hit a cat on Rt 225.... come an get it. Since you're turning the clock back, you should be able to get 2 leaders and string a tennis racket with him.

tomitrou,

I did my research and have changed position. I've just ordered 2 sweetgrass rods. 3' 6", 11wt and a 14', 2wt. I'll be using the 11wt during the glo bug hatch... will that be early this year like most other hatches? The 2wt is my new 'go to' rod for my trip to the Bighorn this August. Can't wait to toss those hoppers on that stick.

If you're using a 5' fly rod on tiny streams and it's gotta be traditional, why not just use a cane pole? Easier and cheaper. Enjoy your creel, silk and bamboo. It is up to you to keep the tradition alive. What you're doing is pure art.... just like it's art when a guy throws his own feces on a canvas and calls it a masterpiece.