

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : silk fly line

Re: silk fly line

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2010/6/10 15:53:21

URL:

Quote:

GreenWeenie wrote:

The greatest thing about a boo rod is because they are such soft rods, you really can accelerate a big, fat juicy night crawler nice and smoothly and get good distance. Modern graphite fly rods, like Sage, are far too stiff and they tend to bust the crawler to pieces on the forward throw.

LMAO.

First it was Pens/Flyers, now it's boo/plastic..... 😬