jeez. this is really very simple. some folks like graphite, some like bamboo, some like glass. that's it. this sport is all about personal preference and enjoyment. if one guy likes the fastest graphite stick out there and loves fishing it, good for him, same for the tweedy dude with the cane rod. both are out on the creek doing what they love to do. I fish both, along with glass, which I absolutely love, but I don't ditch someone because of his equipment preferences. I don't believe any one rod is "better" than any other. different rods for different folks. besides, it's the fisherman that catches the fish, not the rod.
