

---

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Schuylkill River Smallmouth

Re: Schuylkill River Smallmouth

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2010/6/17 8:32:10

URL:

Quote:

Mike wrote:

Springer: It's not you. We boat electrofished for an hour yesterday from just above the Perki mouth down to about a half mile below Valley Creek. While we did not concentrate on SMB habitat, we shocked plenty of it anyway and only saw or captured one SMB.

Thanks for the info Mike. I've fished that section for SMB for quite a few years now, and fished just above there last week. I've posted about the lack of fish there more than a few times on here. It's good to know that it's not just my poor fishing or poor luck when I don't catch fish (smallies). Thanks for reporting the good stuff as well as the bad stuff.

Any theories as to why the SMBs have disappeared?

Also you wrote in your post, "we did not concentrate on SMB habitat, we shocked plenty of it anyway and only saw or captured one SMB." What species of fish were you studying?

Thanks again.