Stream Etiquette. People fishing too close to each other. Someone moved in on me recently and caught my line. I let him know how unhappy I was about that.

I agree about water temp vs. flow to a point. Moving water means more oxygen, right? I'd rather fish a high, fast moving 72 degree stream than a low, still stream.

The higher water would mean less effect from the cooling tribs, though... right?

Then again, if it's moving faster, the sun might warm it less.

I'm not sure how that dynamic would work, but I'm skeptical that any benefit would come from increasing flows.
