Dale, a lot depends on the type of water you're nymphing. If it's shallow water with active fish, no need to switch your rig. I like Afish's recommendation if you want to get your nymphs deep or are fishing long drifts.

Afish, I've never thought of applying flotant to a furred leader. Their tendency to sink and not mend well is the main reason I don't fish them more... might have to give it a shot...
