Thanks guys for all the insight; it does help! I tried using a bugger this morning for a while but nothing was happening and there was fish rising all over the place, so I tied on a trico and BAM, I cuaght my first fish on a fly rod. It was a large bluegill, but it was still exciting to finally catch something. After that I was getting strikes all over, some were Bluegills and some were larger fish, but I couldn't tell exactly what they were. If the wife doesn't give me a hard time I may try it again tomorrow morning.
