Saw this today while fishing for smallies near dawson. I saw at least 30 of these trucks fill up with water in about an hour of fishing. I was under the impression that they were supposed to take this water from municipal sources. How bad of a thing is this? Or should we only be concerned if they are dumping frac water? I also had a guy threaten to take my camera when i tried to take some pics so i waited til i caught a fish and put them in the background. Comments?
