Thanks for the response, Fish. That is all good and useful info. Your right about getting intel from our bait and spin friends. One of the things that clued me into fishing the deeper pools are friends who fish a lot of bait, especially minnows. They are killing them by just dead drifting under a bobber through the hole. I think they hold an advantage in the fact that the bait actually tastes good to the Bass. We can't imitate that; only the appearance and movement. But, that is one of the basic challenges we face as FFM. What are some of your favorite patterns for fishing for Bass?
