I've been fortunate enough to catch some really nice Delaware smallies, biggest was last years 20 incher! I took a friend's advice and put 2 BH buggers one black, one white about 8-10 inches apart. That day I landed the 20 incher and its worked well for bigger smallies since. Running and olive and a white works too. Change the lead fly around too. In faster deeper runs even put on a sink tip with this rig. The flies get down and you have two options, and two contrasting flies to get their attention.

I haven't used the rig as much on the Lehigh yet. Funny thing is I've always had the good success by dead-drifting buggers slowly in deep runs on the Lehigh.
