Kilwell.... Just North of Bethany you will find the Indian River Inlet where Rehobath Bay connects to the Atlantic... When the tides are running in or out (there are those who argue one is better than the other) and if you fish under the bridge or close to it you will think you are fishing a major strong running river flowing in either direction... Guarantee the fish will be there and particularly sea trout... Go for it... Personally, in the heat of summer the best I ever did was Spots, Croakers and Blowfish in the surf however that was well south on the Outer Banks and rarely any luck off Delaware or NJ shores..
