I have been doing relatively well on the Schyulkill in the greater Reading are, but have not been hooking larger fish. 90% of the fish I catch are in the 6-11" range with only a very few over 12".

Is it (in your opinion) because ...

- Not many fish over 12" to be hooked.
- Not fishing where the big guys live.
- Big guys are smarter and pickier.
- Big guys spool easily.

The info on this particular link has been more informative to me than many of the books out there. Thanks guys.
