FWIW, my calves (pictured) are rippling with pure muscle, with nary a bit of cellulite on 'em. They're also surprisingly lightly haired, and while a bit pale, adorned with tasteful Mesoamerican folk art and a poignant reminder that in death, all are equal, taken from a Swedish existentialist classic.

They do, however, suffer from the occasional idiopathic leg cramp, and a rather unsightly scar begotten from a rack-mount effects processor (an ART Multiverb LT, if you're keeping track).

They are exceedingly pale, however, regardless of how often I've been in the sun this year.
