

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : bass ackwards

Re: bass ackwards

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2006/11/29 11:13:34

URL:

I sometimes fish the back cast, and it does the job when needed. I have a friend who a great caster and is ambidextrous. It's so easy for him to just switch hands to fish both sides of the stream. Also, it's a great asset on a boat if are able to switch hands to keep your casts away from your fishing partner. I'm committed to spending some time lawn casting next season until I can cast left handed well enough to fish. And then, I'll do it all day on the stream until cast well, or I run out of flies, tippet, or leaders – which ever comes first.