Not sure if I get this.

For example; you guys hit the stream at like 8am, don't eat hardly anything all day and head back to the car at 9pm "when the action slows" then eat? I would fall down and be delirious. You guys can stand all day and not take 10 minutes to rest and eat something?

I can honestly answer yes to that. I get so consumed with what Im doing that I "forget to eat". At least thats what I tell my wife when she yells at me for comming home hungry. Not trying to sound like I'm "one tough arsed fly fishing S.O.B". Thats not it at all. I just dont think about it and before I know it I've been fishing the hatch for longer than I expected or push polin from place to place looking for hungry snook etc... and what once was morning is now evening. and so on and so on
