If I leave in the morning and plan to fish past lunch time, I'll prepare accordingly and bring food. Usually, I just plan my trips in half day segments so I can get back to the car to go get a beer and a hot meal, then head back to a different section of the stream. It often gets crappy mid day anyway action-wise. If I'm somewhere like the downstream segment of the salmon river, I'll pack a sandwich. The car is too far away in that case. 9 times out of 10, I usually just arrive at home starved though.
