Ok, the dark secret is that I'm just out there figurin' stuff out, and sometimes it works. I really have no idea what I'm doing, but I obsessively analyze everything, and therefore can sound convincing. At the very least, I can figure out what MIGHT work by applying a little old fashioned engineer thinking. I'm happy with leading a group if they're okay with that. 😊

JayL...you are one of the brightest guys I've met! You can figure things out in a flash! Just starting for you equates to 30+ years experience for me on the learning curve!
