tabasco joe,

I do believe that cabelas will let you cast their rods. Unless, of course, you bought them online or through the catalog.

I've been up there a hundred times and was not aware that they would let you cast one. I'll have to check that out next time. Still my point is that a beginner usually has flaws in his casting stroke that prevent much of a useful "feel". If a learned eye was helping it might be more productive. That's more likely to happen at a shop. Don't get me wrong, I love Cabelas and I have the Cabelas Visa Club bills to prove it! Just bought a rod, two reels, and line yesterday. TFO 8'6" 3 weight. I also may have bought a Cabelas FT rod if I could have cast it. They are on sale almost half price.
