

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Rookie

Re: Rookie

Author: : jaybo41

Date: : 2007/9/12 21:53:44

URL:

I have a ziplock bag to hold my leaders. When I buy them, I put them in there and then they go in a gear bag. I have several in my vest and the bulk in the gear bag. The vest has a ziplock filled with leaders too, still in their little plastic bags.

As for tying knots, get used to it. Get some cheap mono and practice tying them. You'll need to re-tie tippet to the leader often. Sometimes more than you would like. I'll change a leader when its pretty tattered or in cases where I'm just sick of tying tippet to my leader. Generally though I use tippet as a whole spool is more economical than replacing the whole leader, even the flouro is cheaper that way.