If it's going to be a long day away from civilization I will put a couple of hot dogs in my thermos and fill it with boiling water before I leave the house, pack a few rolls, some ketchup (or catsup) packets and a bottle of water in the back of my vest. On the way to the stream I'll enjoy a cup of coffee and a snack then eat the hot dogs around lunchtime (or whenever I get hungry enough). This will keep me going well into the late evening. If it's going to be a short outing then I will just take a pack of crackers to hold me over.
