

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Limestone Stream....

Re: Limestone Stream....

Author: : MKern

Date: : 2010/9/10 20:05:37

URL:

Tea has typical limestone vegetation.

I have been to both sources of Tea, the second being the one most people consider the start of the stream, and I have seen very little sandstone.

Matter of fact, the main source of Tea's water shoots right out of the side of the mountain.

However, Honey (Tea's sister stream) starts as a freestone and reemerges as a limestone.

Troutbert is more of an expert, than I, on these stream though.