

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : What Constitues A Catch

Re: What Constitues A Catch

Author: : ryanh

Date: : 2006/12/4 12:55:29

URL:

Troutbert. Come on man! Some times you don't intend to count. Like if you get skunked you don't have to be paying attention to know that you got zero. I say anything under 7 or 8 can and will be remembered that day, though will be forgot the next. Who was that guy a year or two back who bragged about catching like 1000 fish a year? Now thats dumb. I have had few over 10 fish days. So its not hard to remember how many you caught when its only a couple.

On the days where I have had over 10 fish then who cares? I mean the conditions were right and you were on your game. I won't care to remember exactly how many fish I caught. I would just chalk it up as a sh&^ Load and say it was a great day on the water.