

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : What Constitues A Catch

Re: What Constitues A Catch

Author: : JF_

Date: : 2006/12/4 19:51:36

URL:

I keep a journal for myself. In it I note conditions, fishing partners, things I observed, anything notable before or after the fishing, and roughly how many fish I caught. It's not that difficult to keep that in you memory until you get to a piece of paper. I definitely don't do it to compete.

I can read my journal about a trip, say 2 years ago, and from that I could write a page full of memories from that day.

I take a fish as caught when it could be netted or when you have it in your control close to you and could handle it if you wanted to.

John