I was using this as a reference point for someone and wanted to point out that in afishinado's pictures that I believe he is specifically trying to point out not having the larger, varying diameter below the indicator. Otherwise, "NOT this" photo demonstrates better nymphing techniques, i.e. much less leader butt on the water, much better contact with the rig resulting in better feel, longer leader/tippet, lead to get the fly down, etc. The "This" photo is simply going float through the mid to upper water column depending upon flow.
