

---

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Pot Luck Swap?

Re: Pot Luck Swap?

Author: : whheff

Date: : 2010/11/22 10:29:11

URL:

Quote:

jdaddy wrote:

Quote:

I think the Vlad should be included in the program! Thats seems like it would be a good fly for the first day of trout.

A great variation on the pink condom worm is to use a regular color condom and put a very light touch dub on the underlying thread wraps. It's a really awesome looking anchor fly. Some guys feel better throwing them instead of pink as it looks more like "bait".

I have only caught 1 fish on the Vlad. It was probably one of the biggest I ever caught though.

Another variation I tie is with the regular color and use a swimming nymph hook, weight, a green underbody and after rapping the condom I put beard on and it looks like a Rhyacophila.

!2 is fine with me too.