I just have to laugh, I saw a news article about fracking in WV, their dep is inacting tougher regs and the gas companies are saying those regs will "cripple" or even collapse the industry!! yeah right. so what they are saying is, if we take the time to do things right and act with common sense and work carefully, we might as well not even do it. and this is in wv, where taking the entire top off a mountain is considered ok!!

I'm really starting to dislike these gas companies. ruthless is one word that comes to mind.

I'll try to find the link to the article.
