Tim,

I think there is alot of truth in what you said. The comparison of the LV and State College are scary but true. I think that I read somewhere that the State College area is the fastest growing in the state. I think some things will surely change for the worse out there but the outdoor traditions in the area will not allow for it to turn quite into the mess that the LV is. But I could see it turning into the Poconos. Which would be a real shame! I have to giggle everytime I hear people for NY and NJ say they come to the Poconos to escape city life. I then think to myself " I leave the Poconos to escape from you" lol.
