JackM your exactly right. I work for Orvis in Fort Myers part time and the return policy and customer service is great. If your buying line for a trip or need it immediately its not a gamble I would want to take. I still use Orvis line because I can send it back and put new stuff on it immediately however, I've began not to trust it as a product. By the time you realize that your floating line sinks it could cost a big part of the day. Love the rods and reels but the line can leave little to be desired.
