gear:i use a 9 for 7 usually,just to make casting easier.

sometimes i just use my eight and a half foot five weight trout rod.

it is a travel rod and fits in my motorcycle saddlebag.

once in a while i use my girlfriend's 9ft 6 wt.

i only use floating line,wt forward.

i don't think it matters since i rarely catch anything.

today i caught the grass and myself,two pretty big catches.people more successful than i do use sinking line.

parking;parking during the day,during the week can be tough as it is in the middle of a city.however ,at night you can park right on the walnut street bridge and walk down.some people park near the 30th street post office or at the art museam.

i don't know if it is worth coming in to town for,but if you're in town anyway it can be fun.catching a catfish on a "garbage" fly can be hilarious.
