After your done spray lacquering your cat, for messing up your tying station project and causing you to start over..... you mention "getting something, smaller, for trout than your 6'-4/5 wt.

I don't know if anything shorter than that 6 footer would be any better, and fishing it with a 4wt. should be plenty small/light enough!? In fact, seeing that you also list an Orvis 8'-6" 4 wt. that, alone to me anyway, would be an ideal trout rod! Unless, of course, your trout are running in the 4" range!? (note my own, avatar and the monsters that I go up against!?). If anything, try a 3wt. on that Orvis rod, it should handle it nicely, and save buying a new rod!

(God, what am I SAYING? There's NO good reason, NOT to buy a new fly rod!?)
