

---

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Juniata Reflections?

Juniata Reflections?

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2007/10/11 14:04:06

URL:

Good to see a section dedicated to warm water. Anyone doing anything on the Juniata - primarily the section from Lewistown down to the mouth? Judging by what I can see in the previous threads the Susky is still fishing poorly. I had hoped that these rivers would show some recovery this year. I have been unable to fish them and hoped to hear some good news that would portend better fishing for 2008. I did rather poorly on the lower J the last three years. I agree that fallfish can save the day. I've had a lot of fun with them - although the ones I've caught in the Juniata seem to top out at about 11 inches. Hopefully some of you have had some good bass action on the Juniata.