I read somewhere that the line is available thru Rio.

"I'm running out of project excuses and my heaviest rod (a 9' 7wt factory built model) broke this summer for the second time. I could send it back for a replacement, but that's the fourth time I've had one of the brand's rods break while fishing. They're a reputable company, but I'm beginning to think its karma with me and their rods."

What brand of rod is it, and how did you manage to these rods four times while fishing?!

P.S. Hopefully the rod is company is not St. Croix. How about a 9' 8wt 5 piece Ultra Legend (SC IV) as a travel rod build, or something more off the wall like a Gatti FRM908-5. I too am looking to build ANOTHER rod or two!.....X-mas is right around the corner.
