

---

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Tying workstation

Re: Tying workstation

Author: : Anonymous

Date: : 2007/10/14 17:11:55

URL:

CAMBYSES, don't mention it, glad I could help! Some of my ideas and ALL my scars, come from dealing with the opposite, not always softer, sex. Now, I never said "my GOOD IDEAS", I simply said; "SOME of my ideas". However, I have to be boring here, and repeat my earlier post with YOU now included, evidently.....

"Anyone, that can afford expensive booze, (let alone, much of anything expensive), that seriously fly fishes..... I don't know about trusting them very far. Now, to find out, instead of the bottle of " 'Ol Sloppy Face", that I was sure you had hidden away, Bob, you admit you've got a Blue Label bottle of Walker!!??

Heck, I thought I was really rolling high, here a while back, when after a club meeting I invited a few guys over to help me crack open and devour my secretly hidden bottle.

I was very proud of that bottle of spirits and wanted to share it with friends. The label has been freshly printed, and the handwriting was very, very, fancy....for a felt marker job, I thought. The date was right, too, "October 10th, 3:00PM", well aged.

I guess, I don't rank up there with you 2, "elitist"..... since I don't own a "Butt Boat" and all the ice I care about, goes into my well aged, (almost 3 weeks now and counting), Scotch after dinner drink.

Maybe, I'm not doing this fly fishing thing, "right"!!?

I stopped buying rods, (almost), when I hit 25 of them and haven't purchased a reel, since I got my 29th. one.

My "tying table" does take up an entire 23' X 24' room, but even though, too small, I'm not greedy and live with it.