EEEEEE....GADS!!

WHAT, has happened, here to my beloved sport and this particular thread about tying areas/tables!??

It started, with my trying to help, Bob-"Plastic Cat"-Cambyses on some wood working hints for his tying table project and suddenly.....

I'm surrounded by guys that own booze, more expensive than my pick up, someone that shares pillows with a LAWYER and also secretly uses spin gear and nightcrawlers when the hatches are slow!?!

Another, who "climbs ice", (whatever that is), and fishes from a "Butt Boat", while sipping from a flask, containing obvious liquid gold?

Thankfully, while growing up in Tennessee my grandfather's still, outside Cookeville, provided me with a real education as to "what "REALLY GOOD" drink was"! (as well, as, affordable). "Aged, since Thursday", was a great benchmark of fine sipp'in! (if, you got it on Saturday!)

A least, Bloodknot, seems to be fairly trustworthy, since his tying area is roughly the same size as mine and no mention, (yet, anyway, I'm holding my breath), of lawyers, butt boats, spinning gear or nightcrawlers.
