Fishi.....those flies look like they will get their attention to me , nice. And if they don't get their attention use JayL's method and let it sit , i can't wait to try that. i'm not being critical but try tying the chenille in at the rear half way around the bend of the hook , it creates a bend in the fly that looks realistic. instead of a straight piece of chenille you start out with a bend already tied into it. kind of like an "L" or "J"

All credit goes to squaretail on that method. I'll be trying it.
