

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : San Juan worm

Re: San Juan worm

Author: : mike_richardson

Date: : 2010/12/29 11:44:52

URL:

while fishing the hole where Freeman and The First Fork come together i noticed 2 guys just tearing fish out left and right. They were using floats but i couldn't tell what they were using. The one guy made the mistake and cast over my line. I "generously" brought it in and found all they were doing was drifting a red worm 2 feet from the float in a hole i know is well over 6 feet deep. Maybe try this fly in a shallow drift to see if you get any different effect.

When i tie mine i like bend the ends and to move a lighter of the fly quickly and hold it. The material will stay in the curve and give it a some what "SQUIRMY" (for lack of better term) look

I had a lot of hits on a brown SJW with a bead in the middle in Erie.