Well let's see...

In a 3 tray Down's (45 compartments total)

One tray has PT's in all sizes and colors

The second tray has "realistics" aka specific insect matching patterns Mayflies.

The third tray has "realistics" to match caddis and midges. This is also the tray where I carry hatch matching mayfly duns.

I have a streamer tray that I seldom take and a generic nymph tray for stocked streams mostly.

I have a terrestrial tray and a bass tray.

I like the trays mostly for organization. Each bin might only have 6 flies in it. ( $6 \times 45 = 270$ ).

Yes my Down's, carrying 5 trays fully packed, could carry thousands of flies.
