I fall into having some interest in the fishing methods, but not in the competitive part. Competition goes against why I FF in the first place, pure enjoyment of a day out on the stream without any competition or rules.

While I'm not against FFing competitions; for selfish reasons I hope it does not became all the rage. I sold my bass boat a while back for various reasons, but one was because it seemed I'd run into tournament every time I tried to fish my favorite lake or river and had to have a plan B & C to avoid them.

I don't believe that will ever happen with FFing, at least I hope not.
