

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Ice in the guides...

Re: Ice in the guides...

Author: : jayL

Date: : 2011/1/24 16:00:33

URL:

Icey guides won't be your problem in pulaski. If you insist upon fly fishing, you're basically going to have to find a single run, strip enough line out, and make the same cast over and over again. Your guides will be frozen solid.

That's all fine.

But you're going to be making candles, and there is no fix for that. Every cast will result in a thicker layer of ice on your fly line. The only fix is to chew it off every few minutes.