

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Any interest in a Newbie Mini-Jam?

Re: Any interest in a Newbie Mini-Jam?

Author: : Heritage-Angler

Date: : 2011/1/31 22:04:03

URL:

Sounds great, Keith! I'll slot you in.

Really, this isn't even something you need to plan that much for, but if you want to - go for it. Considering the subjects involved, the guys that will be speaking should be able to do this in their sleep, and they probably do!

Just imagine being a newbie, and being able to tap into the immense experience pool of the people speaking. People pay hundreds of dollars for classes being taught by instructors of this caliber - if they're lucky. A good mentor can really accelerate a beginning flyfisher's learning curve. PAFF is a great place to get that kind of mentoring, and to get it in person is priceless.

To my knowledge, this is the first I've ever seen of an internet flyfishing forum offering a program like this for beginners.