Well, cell phones aren't totally useless in area's where YOU can't get a signal. Most cell phones today have a "Location" setting on them. On mine at least, you go to "Settings and Tools", then to "Phone Settings". Then you choose "Location" and your phone is set. If you don't return home at a pre determined time/day your kin calls the Authorities and they can somehow determine your basic location via your phone. I believe it works something like that. Perhaps someone who knows more about how it works can explain it better.
