If wifey is curious or concerned about your whereabouts, she can log in and see pretty directly where you're at.

that is exactly why I don't want one!! I also love the fact that cell phones don't work in lots of brookie stream ravines! I always turn it off anyways when I fish. the only person I care to talk to is the person I am fishing with. I really like traveling out of the country, cell phone stays home, nice to experience the world without thinking one needs to be in constant contact.

and you can never carry too much water. or at least take some kind of purification device. tablets, filter, whatever. I have a bottle that has a filter built in, it's not perfect, but it takes out most of the nasty stuff.
