

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Lehigh River Dam Study

Re: Lehigh River Dam Study

Author: : SBecker

Date: : 2011/2/7 16:33:53

URL:

Sorry for being vague..... Lefarge is in agreement to allow us to tear down Cementon dam if they are allowed to take water out of one of their quarries, that they must drain regularly anyways. They currently use the water behind the dam to cool machines. They applied for the permits to go about this and the EPA shot it down. That is until Chris from Wildlands, explained the reasoning behind the water removal from the quarries to the EPA. The EPA now is supposedly reconsidering the proposed permits because of the benefits to the Lehigh. ....Something like that.....