As a FF/Emt I would also say bring a days worth of any meds you take on a daily basis i.e. heart, bp, diabetes. I had to spend a night out while hunting a few years ago got turned around pretty bad a couple things I never go into the wilderness without are a good sharp knife, fire starter (I prefer the newer ones work even when wet lighters dont) and a compass the gps is great but may not work in rough contry these couple things can make a bad trip easier.A small emergency kit can be made and fit into a plastic band-aid box dosen't take up alot of room. That and don't listen to everything Bear Grylls says =)
