

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Would it be a waste of time?

Re: Would it be a waste of time?

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2011/3/4 12:40:59

URL:

You might be somewhat limited on where you can go. Smaller, tighter streams require more versatility in the cast. Extremely large streams can require more casting distance, which requires more range of movement.

But on medium sized, easier streams, of which PA is rich in, I think you should be alright. I'm a righty and in my normal casting stroke my hand is right around shoulder height, and most of the movement is in the wrist. If you're decent with your left hand, that's certainly learnable as well, especially when learning from scratch.