

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : who is Michael Krancer?

Re: who is Michael Krancer?

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2011/3/26 7:09:32

URL:

You are correct on Marcellus wells, more wells per pad, spaced more widely with more pay per well, etc.

But they're still slapping shallow wells every 500 yards or less. And those are still 1 well per pad, vertical wells. It's not that Marcellus replaced the shallow wells, it's in addition to. See pictures on the first page of this thread, specially the one by my dad's place, which shows 4 new well pads, all less than 3 years old, and from 500-1000 feet apart.

I don't have time today. But tomorrow I'll pm you approximate lat/long for the 6 shallow pads which are to be drilled this spring.